Former tack factory finds new purpose as senior housing

Grand opening to public set for Thursday

BY BOB DEMAREE
Cassandra Mikesell grew up in Jefferson County and was familiar with the old Tack Factory in downtown Madison, so when she heard there were apartments being developed there, she wasn't sure just how that transformation might work.

"I didn't have an architect's eye," she said. "It definitely took a professional to see the vision and make it happen, and what they did was incredible," said Mikesell, regional manager for Valenti Real Estate Manager Services, property manager for what is now Riverside Tower Lofts on the former factory site.

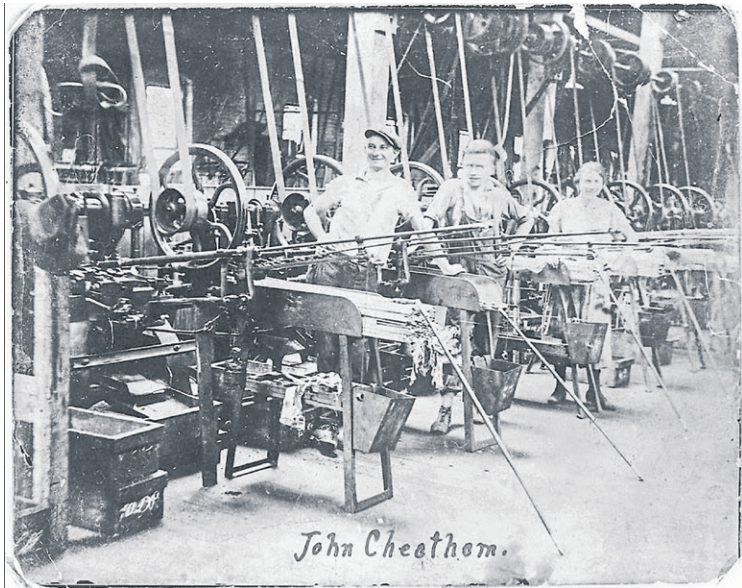

Cassandra Mikesell, regional manager for Valenti Real Estate Manager Services, provides a tour of the grounds of the Riverside Tower Lofts in downtown Madison.

Riverside Tower Lofts opened to tenants in October — providing low income housing for persons at least 62 years old — and is now nearing capacity for the 42 one-bedroom and eight two-bedroom apartments.

"We're hoping to fill them soon," Mikesell said.

The apartments have been developed in space repurposed from a massive brick and stone factory site that was known for decades as serving its previous life as the Tower Manufacturing Company tack factory for more than 111 years. The Tack Factory, a historic landmark built in 1884 by F.C. Johnson at 1001 West Second Street, was originally operated as Johnson Yarn and Cordage. Tower Manufacturing Company, founded by Henry Tower, took over the building later. Tower Company's growth necessitated further additions over the years that expanded the building to 60,000 square feet.

When Tower Manufacturing closed in October of 2007, then company owner Bob Cooke was quoted in the Oct. 11, 2007 edition of The Madison Courier that the factory was "Madison's oldest continuous manufacturer," at that time after long serving the community by employing "a lot families in Madison" as workers made tacks, brads, pins, rivets, cotter pins, electric fence wire, guy-wire, hooks, picture hangers and plate hangers.

The building sat empty for more than a decade — and fell into pretty bad shape — before Denton Floyd Real Estate Group of Louisville decided to take on the project for redaptive reuse of the building.

"It had not been protected from the elements for many years," said Brandon Denton, co-founder of Denton Floyd with partner Thomas Floyd. "It had contaminated products that had been used to manufacture the tacks. It had rotten wood, broken windows and unstable brick walls. It had a lot of issues, but we did our due diligence about whether it was salvageable."

Denton said his group, a real estate company that has been actively involved in a number of adaptive re-use projects, began talking with architects and engineers who reached the opinion that "with the right type of intervention that it

CAB buys cameras, continues search for operators

BY MARK CAMPBELL
The Cable Advisory Board of Jefferson County, Madison and Hanover continued its efforts to restaff and equip Madison TV15 Thursday while looking toward reorganizing the entire operation over the next few months.

The board, meeting at Madison City Hall, agreed to spend about a quarter of its budget to buy much-needed new camera equipment while also advertising to hire at least two contract camera to video the various public meetings and other events the cable board is seeking to provide as part of its local programming.

Debbie Kroger, the group's chairman, said the CAB had about $22,226 left in its budget for 2021, which should be enough to meet the most pressing equipment needs and still provide money to compensate camera operators.

The board approved a recommendation by Lori Hedges to buy two new video camera kits with high definition cameras, wide angle and telephoto lenses, filters, batteries and chargers and bags at a cost of $2,396 each. The two kits would be used by the CAB's camera operators to provide improved coverage of local governmental meetings and events with older cameras made available for loan to groups and individuals seeking to provide content to the CAB's Facebook page, a YouTube channel the group hopes to establish and when the CAB eventually resumes local cable access channel programming.

Finding camera operators has proven difficult since the CAB voted to eliminate the position of former Madison TV15 Station Manager Aaron Paul Wood earlier this year and the camera operators hired by Wood all resigned. Hedges, who teaches video and film at Hanover College, has video recorded some meetings since then and other members of the board and various governmental entities have set up cameras to at least provide a stationary camera feed and sound of other meetings in the interim. The board on Thursday agreed to post a job listing on the Madison TV15 website and the group's Facebook page with hopes of finding more help. The job pays $25 per meeting with some allowance for meetings that run longer than two hours.

Meanwhile, the group agreed to schedule a work session to plan its strategy for moving forward, rebranding the services and reaching a resolution on where the group will go if Madison Mayor Bob Courtney holds to his earlier order that the CAB and Madison TV15 vacant its space in the basement of Madison City Hall.

"As long as we are moving forward I think he will work with us," Kroger said on the mayor's request to vacate the building.

The possibility of having to find other office space and pay for it — the city has provided the CAB offices for free and assisted with bookkeeping and payroll — would impact the group's finances and the ability to buy additional equipment needed to replace older devices that are either technologically obsolete or operationally unreliable.

Hedges said the current state of some equipment combined with the way content is transferred to the cable access channels could force the group to be "totally online" for some time until those issues can be resolved. With that in mind the group agreed to expedite efforts to establish a YouTube channel where higher resolution content can more easily be made available to viewers.

MPD makes arrests; MFD responds to restaurant fire

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Madison Police Department arrested four suspects over the weekend on narcotics-related charges and outstanding warrants and Madison Fire Department responded to the second fire call this month at a hilltop restaurant.

On Friday, MPD Patrolman Chad Wehner and Det. Shawn Scudder assisted the Jefferson County Probation Department with a home search on Oak Hill Drive. During a search of the residence, which was occupied by Ricky A. Sells, 41, methamphetamine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia were located.

Sells was charged with possession of marijuana-prior conviction and possession of methamphetamine, both Level 6 felonies, and possession of drug paraphernalia, a Class A misdemeanor. He was taken into custody and transported to the Jefferson County Jail.

Also on Friday, MPD Patrolman Jared Sweet arrested Darrell M. Atkins, 36, Lexington, and Robert B. Davis, 33, Madison, on warrants and drug possession charges. Sweet, responding to a suspicious person call in the 400 block of Clifty Drive, arrested Atkins on five outstanding bond revocation warrants out of Jefferson County. Davis was found to be in possession of methamphetamine and was arrested on a Level 6 felony.

Both men were taken into custody and lodged in the county jail.

On Saturday, MPD Patrolman Josh Nolan arrested Tyler L. Kennedy, 24, Jeffersonville, for possession of methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony, possession of marijuana, Class B misdemeanor and operating without a license, a Class C misdemeanor.

The arrests were the result of a traffic stop executed by Nolan. During the stop, the officer detected the odor of marijuana and observed drug parapher-naliam in clear view. Kennedy was taken into custody and lodged in the county jail.

Elsewhere, Madison Fire Department responded to its second fire call this month at Burger King, 544 Clifty Drive, Madison.

The call came in at 5:55 p.m. on Sunday when the central dispatch received a report of a grease fire in the restaurant kitchen. The fire was confirmed to have originated in a deep fryer and the hood fire suppression system activated and damage was contained to the equipment involved.

On April 3, firefighters had extinguished a fire at Burger King in the kitchen exhaust system.

Jefferson had 19 new virus cases over weekend

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County had 19 new positive cases of COVID-19 over the weekend — most of those on Saturday when 14 infections were confirmed — and data showed four new positive cases Friday and one new positive case Sunday.

The county remains under an “Orange” advisory status, meaning that the community spread is approaching high levels. Overall, there have been a total 3,307 confirmed cases of COVID-19 in Jefferson County with 81 COVID deaths. The county’s current seven-day average positivity rate is 6.7% and the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 17.6%.

As of Monday, 11,449 Jefferson County residents are now fully vaccinated and 12,187 residents have received at least a first dose of COVID vaccine.

Switzerland County, which remains under a “Yellow” advisory, had four new cases Saturday of COVID-19 with a total of 789 positive cases. The total COVID-19 deaths remains at eight. The county’s current seven-day average positivity rate is 6.3% and the seven-day positivity for unique individuals is 20%. As of Monday morning, Switzerland County has 2,015 residents fully vaccinated and 2,173 have received their first dose of a two-dose vaccination series.

The Indiana Department of Health announced Monday that 607 additional Hoosiers have been diagnosed with COVID-19 through testing at state and private laboratories. That brings to 730,306 the number of Indiana residents now known to have had the novel coronavirus. To date, 13,004 Hoosiers are confirmed to have died from COVID-19, an increase of one from the previous day.

Indiana now has had 2,144,438 fully vaccinated individuals including 2,442,568 that have received the first dose of a two-dose series. In Kentucky, 1,893,307 Kentuckians have received at least their first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine with 1,535,295 now fully vaccinated.

On May 9, the Kentucky Department of Public Health reported 195 new cases of COVID-19. There have been 448,952 positive cases overall and 6,586 deaths including eight new deaths.

In information from the North Central District Health Department, Trimble County has reported 721 cases of COVID-19 with 12 active cases and overall seven deaths during the pandemic. Carroll County has reported 1,007 cases of COVID-19 with 19 deaths.

On Sunday, Trimble County was showing the KDPH’s current incidence rate map as “Orange” status having an accelerated spread of COVID-19 with the rate of its average daily new cases at 13.5 cases per 100,000 population, based on a seven-day period. Carroll County’s rate was 5.4 cases per 100,000 population putting it in “Yellow” status.

different use by transforming it into quality residences,” he said, noting the project underwent 25 design reiterations before finally coming up with one that worked. “It was like putting together a puzzle” to convert the building into 50 apartments.

The result is a complex that is overall cohesive but individually unique in that each apartment is designed differently with many maintaining historical elements of the factory.

“No two apartments are exactly the same,” said Mikesell, adding that all but four of the apartments can be entered on the same level without stairs and only the four loft apartments on the top floor require stairs or an elevator for access.

Riverside Tower Lofts is one of several adaptive re-use projects Denton Floyd has tackled on historic structures in Louisville and southern Indiana.

“It’s a passion to take old forgotten buildings and bring life into them with modern amenities while retaining the historic character,” Denton said.

He estimated the company has been involved in adaptive re-use for 20 buildings while also staying “well-rounded and diverse” in that it is was most important to address the most urgent needs of the organization in marketing Madison and Jefferson County.

Sarah Prasil, previously the marketing and advertising director, has now assumed the title of executive marketing director. Because of the high demand for marketing, there are plans to hire a new marketing associate/assistant to work under the direction of Prasil.

In addition, Katie Burress, one of VMI’s event coordinators, chose to resign that position effective Monday. VMI’s other event coordinator, Holly Love, will continue forward with planning VMI events such as the Madison Ribberfest BBQ & Blues, Madison Chautauqua Festival of Arts, and Night before Christmas Candlelight Tour of Homes.

VMI’s one other full-time staff member, Tiffini Poling, serves as office manager and bookkeeper.

Two part-time guest services staff have returned to the visitor center on weekends and VMI has plans in June to hire one part-time weekday guest services person.

VMI determined the restructuring was needed after reaching out to its tourism partners, attending the Jefferson County Tourism Caucus in March, and holding its annual retreat. Those interactions led the VMI board of directors to feel the top areas to be addressed should be marketing and enhancing the visitor experience at the visitor’s center. With COVID-19 impacting revenues coming in from the county’s innkeepers tax that provides funding for the Jefferson County Board of Tourism, there has been less available for VMI.

Dattilo said moving forward VMI is facing a lot of changes to an industry hit hard by the COVID pandemic.

“This is a time of the ‘Re’s,’ ” she said. “Recognize, regroup, relate, respond, recover, refocus, reconnect, rediscover, and restructure. Business as usual does not exist in today’s post-COVID world.

“The tourism industry has been so heavily impacted. Tourism involves two things, the movement of people and how they want to spend their hard earned money.

VMI recognizes that we have to do more with less.

Being efficient and effective while honoring our mission statement will be our focus.”

VMI reaffirmed its mission to improve the quality of life and economy in Jefferson County by increasing visitation and providing an outstanding visitor experience. Dattilo noted the Madison/Jefferson County tourism industry in 2019 had a value of $43-plus million.

“In order for our community to thrive, we have to protect what makes that industry successful, tourism does just that,” she said.

Friday, the agency said the restructuring is “one of the biggest decisions our organization has ever had to face” and noted it will be the first time in the organization’s 27-year history that it has not had an executive director.

The VMI board of directors has expressed their appreciation to Thomas for her many positive contributions made to the tourism industry in Madison and Jefferson County.

Lucy Dattilo, VMI Board president, said Monday that not having an executive director presents a challenge. “The board must take on more responsibility, and she was a liaison with everyone” in communication with vast numbers of people throughout the region and the tourism industry. “Not having that will be difficult.”

But Dattilo said marketing has been deemed a priority, and with VMI’s funding limitations it

Peaks and valleys

Dear Annie: My husband and I have been married for 12 years. We have never had an easy marriage, and I am considering leaving him.

ANNIE
LANE
DEAR ANNIE

I got out of an abusive relationship before I met him, and I feel like I am being put in that position again. This time, it is not physical violence but emotional and financial.

My husband took a job that he had always wanted. During the training, he made less than what he was making before. I had to leave my full-time job to take care of the kids. I picked up a part-time job, but it did not compare to what I was making before. Both his and my credit were ruined, and we almost lost the house.

Then, COVID-19 hit. My husband's employer put a stop to voluntary overtime, but there was mandatory overtime. His employer blacked out dates that were off-limits for vacation. My husband is a first responder, and we had to cancel our vacation this year due to those blackout dates.

IN FACT, THE
whole summer was blacked out, from mid-April until mid-September.
He was just informed that he will be on 12-hour days, with no days off for the foreseeable future.

It has been years since we have been away as a family. What's worse is that I have health issues. The only thing the doctors can do is treat the symptoms and make me comfortable. We have been through a lot together.

I love him with all my heart, and he is a great guy. However, he treats me differently now. He told me today to cancel his phone and leave him alone. He won't talk to me or his daughter. I am not sure how much longer I can take this. What should I do? — Stay or Go?

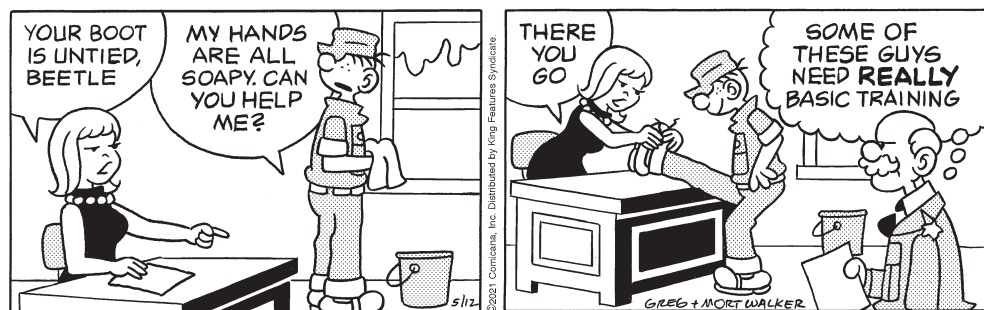

Dear Stay or Go:
Only you can truly know whether to stay or go.
It does sound like there has been a lot of love and history between you. Your husband's attempts to isolate himself seem to be in response to demands from work that he cannot control. He might have depression or built-up rage. Try marriage counseling or encouraging him to attend therapy on his own to navigate through these challenges.

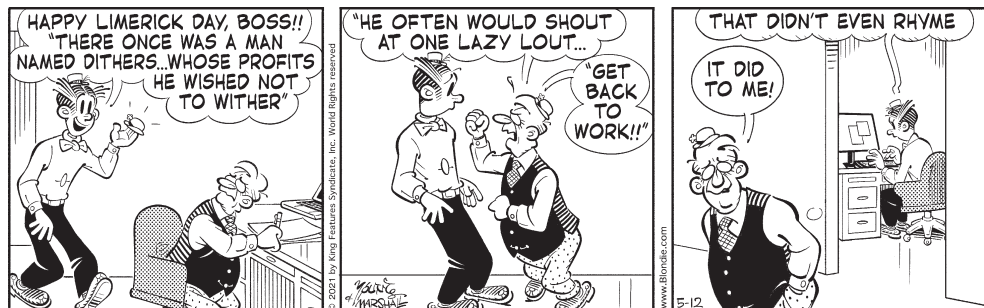

Life is filled with peaks and valleys, and you — along with the entire world — are in a valley because of the pandemic. Never make life-altering decisions in a peak or valley. Try and get to a state of calm and peace first. Hopefully, your children can go back to school soon (if they haven't already) and you can continue working, all of which will offer some calm. This is a moment in time, and it will pass.

Putting an end to abuse

Dear Annie: I have been with my husband for more than 25 years, and I have allowed things to get out of hand. Over the years, he has done a lot for my daughter and her kids, and he has brought me used cars that I did not ask for but appreciate. When we go on vacation, I pay my share. Whenever we talk, we get into arguments. He throws all of what he has done for me and my daughter and grandkids, and he makes it seem as if everything wrong is my fault.

I cannot do anything right in his eyes. All our problems are my fault, and he never listens to what I have to say and how I feel. This makes me feel like I don't want to be with him anymore. He has put his hands on me before for saying something that he didn't like, so now I don't like to argue with him because I don't know if he will do it again. I have told him that, and he will not respond to it. I don't want to go on like this. — Life Is Too Short to Be Unhappy.

Dear Unhappy: I am very sorry that you are going through this. You are undoubtedly in an abusive relationship. Domestic abuse, also called “domestic violence” or “intimate partner violence,” occurs when one person bullies the other to maintain power and control. Abuse can be physical, sexual, emotional, economic or psychological.

Seek help from the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-7233 or <https://www.thehotline.org>, or visit your local YWCA. You are on the right path to a happy and fulfilled life just by the way you signed your letter. The intention is there; now you have to take action to reach to your goal of peace and happiness. Best of luck to you and your family.

Dear Annie: My husband and I have been married for many years. He is now in his 80s and should be chauffeured around rather than driving himself. He is adamant that he is a great driver and will drive till the day he drops dead. But he cannot feel his feet at all because of diabetes, and he has cataracts on both eyes.

ANNIE
DEAR ANNIE

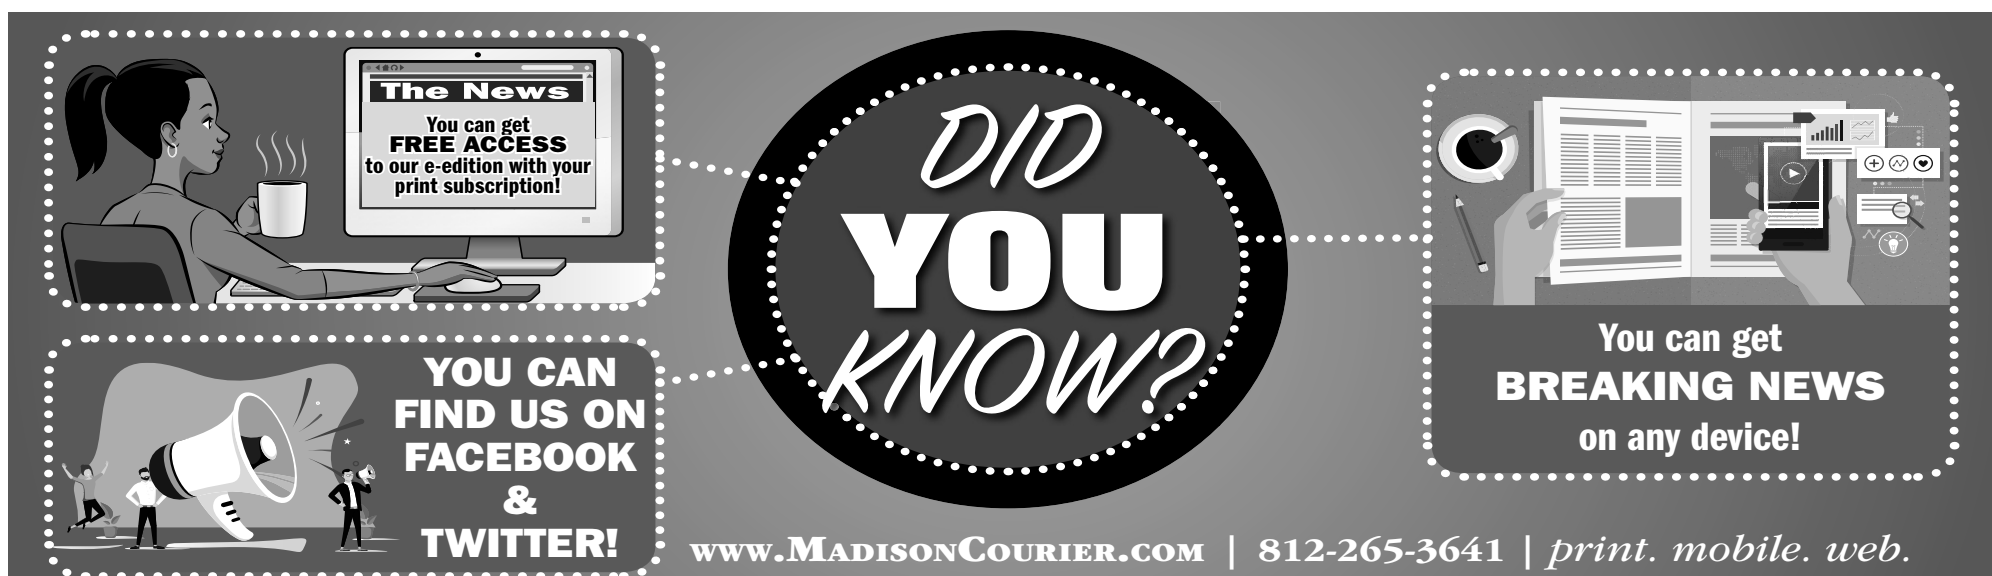

He's been told by one of his doctors that if he is hit from behind, his spine could literally internally decapitate his head due to his extremely advanced degenerative disc disease. He is in extreme pain constantly but refuses to give up his right to drive.

ANNIE This man is a retired senior military officer and a retired surgeon. He has given orders his whole life and doesn't know how to take any orders.

Please help me know what to do. I don't want him to be responsible for someone else getting hurt, but I know he will be beyond angry if I initiate some process that ultimately takes his driving privileges away. I know I'm not the first wife who has had to deal with this. I just don't know how. — Don't Want to Hurt Someone Else

Dear Don't Want to Hurt Someone Else: You are very wise to be concerned, and you are correct that you are certainly not the first person to have dealt with this, nor will you be the last. Here are some steps you can take:

- Have a conversation focusing on both your concerns and the positives.
 - Ask a respected authority figure or an attorney to reinforce the message about not driving.
 - Have a relative or close friend “borrow” the car.
 - Hide or “lose” the car keys.
 - Anonymously report your husband to the DMV.
 - Disable or sell the car.
 - Hide your own car and car keys.
- Best of luck to you!

Reds' Miley throws season's 4th no-hitter

BY TOM WITHERS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CLEVELAND — Wade Miley's 4-year-old son, Jeb, convinced him to put a temporary tattoo of the Hulk on his right forearm for his start against the Indians. He might need to get some permanent ink. "I got no muscles at all," Miley said, smiling. "Maybe this gave me some strength."

Miley pitched like a super hero. The Cincinnati left-hander tossed baseball's second no-hitter in three days — and fourth already this season — leading the Reds to a 3-0 win Friday night over the Cleveland Indians, who were no-hit for the second time in a month.

Miley (4-2) relied on breaking pitches and his experience of 11-plus major league seasons to baffle the Indians and throw Cincinnati's 17th no-hitter and first since Homer Bailey in 2013.

"It's so far-fetched," the 34-year-old said. "I'm speechless. It still hasn't sunk in."

The easy-going Miley said he shook off an 83-minute rain delay to start the game by "goofing off" in the clubhouse and then followed Baltimore's John Means, who no-hit Seattle on Wednesday, to continue an early run of pitching gems in 2021 — quickly becoming the Year of the No-No.

Miley's joined the '21 no-hitter club that was started by San Diego's Joe Musgrove who threw the first in Padres' history on April 9. Five days later, Chicago White Sox left-hander Carlos Rodón blanked the Indians, just missing a perfect game when he hit a batter in the ninth inning.

Arizona's Madison Bumgarner pitched a seven-inning no-hitter against Atlanta on April 25, but that one isn't recognized as official because it didn't go nine innings.

This is the earliest in a calendar year there have been four no-hitters since 1917, when the fourth was thrown on May 5 and the fifth on May 6. It's no wonder, with hitters entering Friday batting a record-low .233 this season.

Talented, young Madison holds off Lawrenceburg

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Madison's 10th-ranked baseball team features an alluring mixture of talent and youth and both attributes were on display on Friday.

Madison's youth nearly squandered a five-run lead with defensive mistakes but it was the talent that held out in the end as the Cubs knocked off Lawrenceburg, 5-4, at home on Friday.

Madison coach Tim Armstrong is no fan of excuses and it wasn't about to make one about a team which started five sophomores. But the veteran coach admitted that he'd rather be upset about poor play in a win than poor play in a loss.

"When we got up 5-0, it was like we can rest, it's over. But you can't do that, especially against a program like Lawrenceburg," Armstrong said. "We're just better than, I don't care if we've got sophomores out there or not. The main thing is we're better than we played tonight."

Lawrenceburg starter Kyle Heeney struggled with his control and walked five of the nine batters he faced and gave up two hits and Madison took control, scoring five runs and seemingly taking control of the game.

But the next six innings weren't as easy for Madison, which managed just two more hits and failed to lay down bunts twice. But

Medina Spirit could lose Derby win

Churchill Downs bans Baffert after horse fails drug test

BY GARY B. GRAVES
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Medina Spirit's victory in the Kentucky Derby is in serious jeopardy because of a failed postrace drug test, one that led Churchill Downs to suspend Hall of Fame trainer Bob Baffert on Sunday in the latest scandal to plague the sport.

Baffert denied all wrongdoing and promised to be fully transparent with the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission during its investigation. Baffert's barn received word Saturday that Medina Spirit had tested positive for an excessive amount of the steroid betamethasone, which is sometimes used to treat pain and inflammation in horses.

Medina Spirit's win over Mandaloun in the Derby stands — for now.

"To be clear, if the findings are upheld, Medina Spirit's results in the Kentucky Derby will be invalidated and Mandaloun will be declared the winner," Churchill Downs officials said in a statement shortly after Baffert held a hastily planned morning news conference outside his barn to announce and respond to the allegations.

The track said failure to comply with the rules and medication protocols jeopardizes the safety of horses and jockeys, the sport's integrity and the Derby's reputation.

"Churchill Downs will not tolerate it," the statement read. "Given the seriousness of the alleged offense, Churchill Downs will immediately suspend Bob Baffert, the trainer of Medina Spirit, from entering any horses at Churchill Downs Race-track."

Medina Spirit is expected to run in the Preakness on Saturday, barring some abrupt change in plans or a decision from officials at Pimlico or Maryland's racing commission that would prevent him from entering the second jewel of the Triple Crown.

Officials from 1/ST Racing, a branding arm of the Stronach Group that owns and operates Pimlico, and the Maryland Jockey Club said Sunday they would consult with state authorities and that "any decision regarding the entry of Medina Spirit in the 146th Preakness Stakes will be made after review of the facts." Officials rescheduled the post position draw for Tuesday afternoon, moving it back a day in light of

Shawe pitchers Hunter Kennett, Jacob Hertz and Philip Kahn combined for a five-inning no-hitter as the Hilltoppers rolled over Rock Creek, 16-0, at home on Saturday.
Kennett (1-4) got the start and struck out four in two innings before giving way to Hertz who also had four punch outs in two innings. Kahn then closed out the game with two strikeouts in one inning.
Only a third-inning error kept the Hilltoppers from recording a perfect game.
Hertz also led the offensive effort, going 2-for-2 with a triple and three RBIs. Wyatt Nichter was 2-for-3 with a double and four RBIs, Zach Gish had a double and two RBIs, Casey Hill had a single and an RBI and Eric Liu had a single and scored twice.
“It was nice to be able to play everyone tonight. I was especially proud of our pitchers as they did a great job of throwing strikes,” Shawe coach Geno Pawlak said. “We just need to keep working and improving every time we take the field.”

On Friday, Shawe suffered a 13-3 loss at home to future sectional foe West Washington. Kennett had a double and an RBI, Nichter had a hit and an RBI, Hertz had a hit and scored a run and Kahn scored two runs. “We started out well and played even with for the first three innings before the wheels fell off,” Pawlak said. “Fortunately, we have the opportunity to redeem ourselves in three weeks. We must continue to work hard and improve in the meantime.”
Shawe, now 3-10 on the sea-

Southwestern rallied from an early 7-0 deficit to tie the game at 10-10 with three runs in the top of the seventh inning. But Jac-Cen-Del scored a run in the bottom of the seventh to claim the win.

Landon DeAtley (4-1) suffered the loss after tossing four and two-thirds innings in relief of his brother Jordan DeAtley. Landon struck out four and walked three while allowing three earned runs.

Ohtani making history with 2-way success for Angels

BY GREG BEACHAM
ASSOCIATED PRESS
ANAHEIM, Calif. — The only weakness in Shohei Ohtani’s incredible two-way game these days is his control, and it’s bugging the Los Angeles Angels’ star.
Although Ohtani is off to a superb start to a season with no analogue in the past baseball century, he has walked 19 batters in his four mound appearances.
Ohtani has fully emerged as one of the best hitters and also one of the most intriguing starting pitchers in baseball early in his fourth big league season. He’s still a meticulous perfectionist with no real hobbies or interests outside of getting better — and video games, of course.
So while he piles up homers (a major league-leading 10, with his bat) and strikeouts (30, with his arm) even more quickly than Babe Ruth did when he first joined the Yankees as a two-way player 101 years ago, Ohtani is also searching for the reasons behind his wayward control — particularly in the first inning, when he has issued eight of those walks.
“I think I’m just trying to rush everything and get out of the inning as quick as I can,” Ohtani said earlier this week through his translator. “I need to slow down and not rush everything as much.”
Not much happens quickly in baseball, and not just because of the languorous modern pace of play. Prospects become major league regulars — and regulars become legends — usually over the course of months and years, not days or weeks.
Nearly three years after the mound portion of his remarkable AL Rookie of the Year campaign ended with a torn elbow ligament requiring Tommy John surgery, Ohtani has slowly, deliberately built himself back into a unique force.

The Angels knew it might take years to achieve Ohtani’s dream to become the majors’ most consistent two-way player in decades, but the Japanese star has returned to that uncharted baseball territory this spring.
With a 2.41 ERA complemented by some of the majors’ best power numbers at the plate, Ohtani has been the transcendent player in 2021 that he and the Angels patiently believed he would become. The next goals are consistency, longevity and health for a preternaturally talented athlete who has only been held back by injury.
“He’s feeling so good, and doing so well,” said Angels manager Joe Maddon, who encouraged Ohtani’s move to play every day this season. “There’s a lot of positive adrenaline rolling within him right now, so let’s play that all the way out.”
Ohtani is batting .276 with 26 RBIs and a .952 OPS as the Angels’ everyday designated hitter, producing elite exit velocities and cutting down on his occasional weakness for low-percentage swings.
Ohtani hit his 10th homer of the season Thursday night, surpassing his entire total in 44 games last season and tying him for the overall lead with Boston’s J.D. Martinez and Atlanta’s Ronald Acuña Jr.
He added two RBI doubles Friday night against the defending World Series champion Dodgers, thumping the ball off the Angel Stadium wall and cruising into second with his graceful, economical stride that belies his well-above-average speed on the basepaths — he was 14th in the majors in top sprint speed last week, and his six stolen bases rank among the top 10.

Serena Williams returning after ‘very intense’ training

BY ANDREW DAMPF
ASSOCIATED PRESS
ROME — Forget all that speculation about Serena Williams considering retirement after her emotional hand-to-heart gesture upon her Australian Open exit three months ago.
While Williams has not played since losing to Naomi Osaka in the Melbourne semifinals in February, she has been practicing “very intensely” on clay courts and is ready to “start fresh” in her pursuit of Margaret Court’s record of 24 Grand Slam titles.
Preparing to return at this week’s Italian Open to gear up for Roland Garros later this month, Williams on Monday detailed her recent training regimen.

There was a block of time on clay courts back home in the United States followed by 2½ weeks on the red dirt at the French academy run by her coach, Patrick Mouratoglou.
“So we had an intense several weeks of training — very intense,” Williams said. “I feel good. ... I’m going to have some good matches here hopefully, and then I will be at another Grand Slam, which always makes me excited. So I think either way I’ll be ready.”
The 39-year-old Williams, who only needs one more Grand Slam title to match Court’s record, added that her fans shouldn’t read too much into the lack of tennis information she shares on social media.

“I don’t do a lot of sport content, so I do feel like people are wondering if I’m playing, and I have to say I always am, you just don’t see it,” she said. “I don’t show what I do. I don’t always show my cards.”
Williams, a four-time champion in Rome, will face either French Open semifinalist Nadia Podoroska or German qualifier Laura Siegemund in her opening match at the Foro Italico. She’s in the same quarter of the draw as Osaka and has a first-round bye.
“It’s good to start fresh but it’s also hard to start fresh,” Williams said.

Williams was also asked if she will play at the Tokyo Olympics if coronavirus protocols mean she can’t bring her 3-year-old daughter into Japan.
“I haven’t spent 24 hours without her, so that kind of answers the question itself,” Williams said. “We’re best friends.”
“I haven’t really thought much about Tokyo, because it was supposed to be last year and now it’s this year, and then there is this pandemic and there is so much to think about,” she added.
“Then there is the Grand Slams. It’s just a lot. So I have really been taking it one day at a time to a fault, and I definitely need to figure out my next moves.”

start. He coasted through five innings and carried a perfect game into the sixth, when he began to realize history could be made.

One of the team’s most popular players, Miley said the zeros on the scoreboard quickly made him an out-cast in Cincinnati’s dugout.

“All my buddies left me,” he said with a laugh. “I don’t like that. I don’t like thinking about pitching. I want to talk about something else, talk about fishing, talk about hitting, There was nobody to talk to.”

In the ninth, Miley retired pinch-hitter René Rivera on a lazy fly to right, struck out César Hernández and then retired Jordan Luplow on a grounder to third before he was mobbed by the Reds, who encircled him and danced across the grass.

“I will never forget that,” Reds manager David Bell said. “I will never forget the look on Wade’s face. I’m so glad he’s enjoying every moment.”

For their part, the Indians joined a dubious list by becoming the 17th team to be no-hit twice in the same season. It most recently happened to Seattle in 2019.

Miley walked one and struck out eight on 114 pitches.

“He kept us off balance,” Indians manager Terry Francona said. “He touched 90 (mph) once tonight, but he put on a clinic. I mean he cut the ball in on the righties, threw a changeup, threw a four-seamer in, he just went back and forth.”

While Miley was blanking the Indians, Zach Plesac did the same to the Reds for eight innings before Cincinnati pushed three runs across in the ninth, helped by closer Emmanuel Clase’s throwing error and a balk.

The Reds got a pair of singles before Clase (2-1) fielded an infield tapper and threw wide of second base, allowing Nick Senzel to score from second. Then, with runners at the corners, Clase began his windup before stopping and tried to throw to second.

Mike Moustakas, starting at first for the injured Joey Votto, followed with an RBI single to make it 3-0 and give Miley, who battled injuries last season after joining the Reds, more cushion — but also more time to think about it in the dugout.

“That’s probably when I felt it the most,” said the Louisianan, who got emotional afterward while thinking of family back home. “We scratched across three runs and it was going kind of slow. I didn’t want to throw in the hallway because I was pretty tired, but at the same time I wanted to stay loose. But I was able to get three pretty quick ones.”

Miley came in just 1-4 in eight career starts against the Indians, who were batting only .213 as a team. But Cleveland has been as hot as any team, riding a five-game winning streak and winning nine of 11 to take over first in the AL Central.

Working quickly on a cool, damp night, Miley made fast work of the Indians.

He coasted through five innings and didn’t allow a baserunner until the sixth, when Cleveland’s Amed Rosario reached on second baseman Senzel’s fielding error and then went to second on his throwing error.

Miley also allowed a walk in the inning, but regrouped by getting Luplow on a liner to left.

Franmil Reyes came the closest to getting a hit for the Indians, but his hard smash in the fifth inning was right at shortstop Kyle Farmer, who knocked it down and had plenty of time to throw out the slow-footed slugger.

When it ended, the delighted Reds jumped in a circle around Miley, who has pitched for Houston, Milwaukee, Baltimore, Seattle, Boston and Arizona but feels at home in Cincinnati.

Prior to this, Miley was most famous for a game he hardly pitched: when Brewers manager Craig Counsell used him as a decoy in Game 5 of the 2018 NL Championship Series. Miley started and faced one Dodgers batter before Counsell went to the bullpen.

Miley then took the ball for Game 6, becoming the first pitcher in 88 years to start consecutive postseason games.

it was the Cubs’ defense, that committed five errors and made three other mental mistakes, that was the biggest issue.

“I’m more upset with our defense than our offense and our offense wasn’t that good,” Armstrong said. “I thought Ben (Orrill) pitched a pretty good game but he threw more pitches than he should have.”

Orrill (5-1) went six innings and allowed just six hits while striking out three and walking three but the sophomore nearly took a no-decision. Poor defense allowed Lawrenceburg to score two runs in the second and two more in the fourth — all unearned — to pull within one.

But Orrill didn’t allow the mistakes to affect him. He turned a double-play on a poor bunt attempt to escape the sixth, then turned the ball over the senior Zach Forner who gave up a hit and walked a batter, but struck out one and slammed the door for his third save of the season.

Orrill also had three of the Cubs’ four hits with fellow senior Zander Vonch collecting a hit and an RBI. Forner, Trenton Barnes and Luke McCarty each had RBIs.

Madison had a much easier time on Saturday, pulling away for a 12-3 win over Corydon Central on the road. Zach Forner was 3-for-4 with a double, four RBIs and three runs scored, Vonch had three hits and three RBIs, Barnes was 2-for-5 with a double and two RBIs and Collin Yancey had two hits and scored two runs.

Barnes (2-2) scattered two earned runs on four hits in four innings to get the win. Liam Murphy pitched the final three innings for his first save of the season.

Madison, now 15-6 on the season, kicked off the Hoosier Hills Conference Tournament on Monday at Jennings County. The Cubs will play at either Seymour or Jeffersonville on Wednesday and will host the final game on Friday.

DERBY

the uncertainty.

“I got the biggest gut-punch in racing for something that I didn’t do,” Baffert said of the failed drug test. “And it’s disturbing. It’s an injustice to the horse. ... I don’t know what’s going on in racing right now, but there’s something not right. I don’t feel embarrassed. I feel like I was wronged. We’re going to do our own investigation. We’re going to be transparent with the racing commission, like we’ve always been.

“He’s a great horse. He doesn’t deserve this. He ran a gallant race,” Baffert added.

The only horse to be disqualified for medication after winning the Derby is Dancer’s Image in 1968.

Medina Spirit is Baffert’s fifth horse known to have failed a drug test in just over a year. Flanked by his attorney Craig Robertson, Baffert said his barn was told that Medina Spirit was found to have 21 picograms of betamethasone — slightly more than double what the trainer said was the allowable amount — in a postrace sample.

Betamethasone is the same drug that was found in the system of Gamine, another Baffert-trained horse who finished third in the Kentucky Oaks last September. Gamine was eventually disqualified from that finish because of that test and Baffert was fined $1,500. Betamethasone is legal under Kentucky racing rules, though it must be cleared 14 days before a horse races.

“I’m not a conspiracy theorist,” Baffert said. “I know everybody is not out to get me, but there’s definitely something wrong. Why is it happening to me? You know, there’s problems in racing, but it’s not Bob Baffert.”

Mandaloun, which lost the Derby by a half-length, is not going to the Preakness. If Mandaloun is declared the Kentucky Derby winner, that would mean the Triple Crown pursuit for 2021 would end right there. It is unknown how long Kentucky officials will take to determine whether the results of the Derby should stand or will change.

If Medina Spirit is disqualified, his connections will not receive the $1.86 million winner’s share of the Derby purse money. But for bettors, anything that happens next won’t matter — those who cashed in on Medina Spirit still win, those who didn’t still lose and those who backed Mandaloun missed out on a winning ticket that would have returned more than $50 on a $2 wager.

Baffert was planning to saddle Medina Spirit and Concert Tour in the Preakness, going for a record eighth victory in that race. Except for 2020 when the races were run out of order due to the coronavirus pandemic, Baffert is undefeated with a Derby winner in the Preakness.

Last month, Baffert won an appeals case before the Arkansas Racing Commission after he had been suspended by Oaklawn Park stewards for 15 days for a pair of positive drug tests involving two of his horses that won at the track on May 2, 2020. The horses tested positive for the painkiller lidocaine, which Baffert said they were exposed to inadvertently.

But as Baffert insisted that horse racing can do better preventing doping, he also acknowledged the spotlight.

“I know I’m the most scrutinized trainer and have millions of eyes on me. But you know what? I don’t have a problem with that,” Baffert said.

“The last thing I want to do is do something that would jeopardize the greatest 2 minutes in sports.”

Animal Wellness Action executive director Marty Irby said in a statement that racing authorities “should throw the book” at those found guilty of violations.

The failed drug test is just another in a long series of events shadowing the sport — and the Derby, its best known and most prestigious race — in recent years.

Maximum Security crossed the line first in the 2019 Kentucky Derby before being disqualified by Churchill Downs stewards for interference in what was an unprecedented move. Country House, which crossed the line second in that race, is now considered the winner.

CARROLL LOSES TO HIGHLANDS

Carroll County lost 12-1 to Highlands at home on Saturday.

The Panthers were held to just three hits in the game. Bailey Stewart had a double while Lexie Williams and Bailey Mefford each added singles.

Courtney Strickland drove in Mefford with the lone run.

Mallory Noble (4-6) allowed just earned runs in five innings and took the loss.

Carroll, now 4-6 on the season, hosted Dupont Manual on Monday and travels to Walton-Verona on Wednesday.
